

To whom it may concern,

Ti Training manufactures software and hardware for the Training Lab, RECON (aka RECON 180), Firing Line and Training Room Systems and is the only manufacturer of these products. The RECON family of system's design is patented (Patent No. US 10,379,428) Therefore, Ti Training is the only company that can provide the RECON Simulation System (aka UltraWorld) and a movable, connected, projection simulation system. Furthermore, Ti Training cameras, software, and firmware have been developed and configured by Ti Training to work specifically with the Training Lab, and RECON simulation systems. Our technology is proprietary and has been designed to integrate with this product. As a result, only Ti Training technology and software works with the Training Lab RECON System. Ti Training will defend its intellectual property, including its valid patents, aggressively.

Ti Training is the exclusive servicer of any warranty packages and services for Ti Training Warranties. All warranty items and service needs will be directed to Ti Training Customer Service Personnel. And TI Training Customer Service personnel are the direct contact for the customer for any items related to this warranty package.

Ti Training is the sole source distributor and owner of IP rights, including US Patents and patents pending, of any laser products and accessories that interact with Training Lab and RECON Systems. As a result, no other source can provide, accessories, the actual laser device or adapters for use on the lasers other than TI Training. This would include Dry Fire Laser Inserts, Laser Adapters, VRG Blue Guns, TL Flashlights, and any Laser Device and peripheral items currently used on the Training Lab product line.
