The Community Oriented Policing Department of the U.S. Department of Justice has solicited applications for projects that support the Community Policing Development Program. The purpose of the program is to grant funds for development of the capacity of law enforcement to implement community policing strategies; building knowledge about effective practices and outcome and supporting new, creative approaches to preventing crime and promoting safe communities.

A grant application will be submitted by the June 7, 2018 deadline for the Seguin Police Department requesting two years at $150,000 each year of funding to create an Opioid detection, eradication and community education unit.

No matching funds are required.
